Working closely with an IDIM adviser, students develop program proposals that explain their academic goals and list a set of courses appropriate for meeting those goals. IDIM program proposals must be approved by three faculty or department advisers with expertise in the areas of concentration. Some departments have established guidelines for students who wish to include in their majors concentration areas based in those departments. Consult an IDIM adviser for specific information on proposal approval procedures and department guidelines.

The following is a list of previously approved IDIM programs:

- Law, Justice, and Inequality in America
- Comparative Studies in Education and Liberation
- Art and the Designed Environment
- Disciplines of Science and Their Impact on Humanistic Thought
- The Actor in Context: Performance, Culture, and the Body
- Influence of Visual Art on Human Psychological Development
- Human Rights and Women: Paths to Remedies

Degree Requirements

Students must complete at least 120 credits to graduate, including at least 50 credits in the major.

The 50 credits must be distributed among three or four concentration areas, with at least 11 credits at the 3xxx level or above in each area. The concentrations may be departmental or thematic in composition. At least 40 of the 50 credits must be 3xxx or above.

At least 20 credits in the major must be completed after the program has been approved. No more than 12 credits of directed studies may be applied toward the major. The CLA requirement of 18 credits at or above 3xxx outside the major does not apply.

Final Project

Students must complete an integrating senior project, earning at least 2 credits in conjunction with the project. Project proposals must be approved by faculty and staff advisers the semester before the project is begun. Projects may vary widely in form, depending on a student’s major. The project proposal and the project itself must be reviewed and approved by one faculty adviser and two faculty readers.

Academic Advising

In addition to working with an IDIM adviser, who will assist students in planning their majors, students also work with a college adviser in their CLA student community who assists them with degree requirements.
What can I do with an IDIM?

Skills
IDIM majors learn critical and independent thinking, writing, self-confidence, flexibility, and the ability to navigate a complex system are among the most important skills and qualities that IDIM graduates say they developed through their individualized degree programs. IDIM graduates report that employers are often impressed with the creativity, initiative, and persistence they demonstrate in having completed individualized programs.

Employment
Individualized programs can include courses from a wide variety of departments. The majority of IDIM graduates go on to work in fields related to their programs of study. Among the most common fields are communication and media, marketing and advertising, finance, education, human resources, health care, and non-profit program management. In recent years, over 25% of IDIM students have gone on to graduate degree programs that prepared them to work in fields ranging from business to landscape architecture to law to medicine to public health to screenwriting.

The Career & Community Learning Center provides CLA students with many of the tools they will need to identify potential careers and to implement their eventual career choice. An extensive resource room, the CLA Link job/internship/volunteer position listing website, career courses and workshops, and a helpful staff are just a few of the ways that we can help.
